The Thirty-third Sunday

Mass Readings: Pages 164 – 166

Order of Mass: Pages 6 – 60

As the liturgical year draws to a close, the focus is on the end of the world and second coming of Christ.

The prophet Malachi says that for evildoers the Day of the Lord will be a day of judgement, but for the upright it will be a day of salvation. His stark message was meant to act as a warning to sinners and an encouragement to the just.

Luke talks about the parousia (second coming) in close association with the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple. The destruction of the Temple, which Jesus had predicted, had already occurred by the time Luke was writing. This would have been interpreted by some as a sign that the end of the world was starting. But Luke reminds them that Jesus had warned his disciples not to be deceived by rumours and apparent signs that the end was near.

The Gospel goes on to address a situation of more immediate concern to the disciples—persecution they must face. Persecution will be an opportunity to bear witness to the Gospel. But they will triumph in the end, provided they remain steadfast.

Paul also refers to the Second Coming. Some of the Thessalonians, believing that the parousia was imminent, saw no need to work. Presenting himself as an example, Paul tells them to go on living and working as normal, and not to be content to live off the community.
